Sweeta Halluru, 26-year-old hails from Hulageri, Hungund, a backward region, about 80 km from Bagalkot, Karnataka. She lives there with her parents who are daily wagers, and two younger brothers studying in Classes XI.

Her parent's income proved to be insufficient for sustaining the livelihood of the family. The financial constraints surrounding Sweta's family pushed her into a direction that was astray of education. Post completion of studies till PUC, she started looking for work to financially assist her family. Ashadeepa organization sent her for a special post-graduation diploma in Therapy (CCRT). After the course, She got to know about the 90-day free training program implemented by the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (SDP) at Ilkal. She enrolled in skill development training and received training with soft skills, entrepreneurship, computer skills, Online work, safe work practices, teamwork, self-development, emergency handling procedure, Digital India, entrepreneurship guidance, and so on. During the training trainers patiently taught them both theoretical and practical aspects of the job. She was among the 18 girls from various nearby places who undertook the training.

Sweta Halluru secured a job as community mobilizer at Ashadeepa organization with a monthly salary of Rs 12,000.

She shares, "I'm glad that my friends and I fared well in both the theory and practical. NABARD provided certificates validating the successful completion of our training. after this, I got a job at the Ashadeepa Organization with a salary of Rs. 12,000 per month.

After 8 months Sweta Halluru secured a job as community therapist at Taluka general hospital in Gubbi, Tumakuru with a monthly salary of Rs 18,000.

My takeaway from this experience is that everyone should acquire skill in The scheme has touched the lives of many unemployed youths. Sweta is among the women trained by National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (SDP) with Ashadeepa Angvikalara Sarva Abhiwruddhi Seva Samsthe at Ilkal. The skill training has helped many families secure a better livelihood and earn respect in the society.
